

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In particular aspects, embodiments of the present invention provide a programmable logic device including routing paths from one routing resource to another via connections between outputs of region input multiplexers and the destination routing resource and/or via connections between outputs of sub-region input multiplexers and the destination routing resource.